any legal observations, please?

Mr. McPhee is away.

I think the last seven words of this new paragraph (99) in S. 52 are unnecessary. But we need not comment.

A | There is no kind of Report so far as I can see, accompanying this Ordinance. If - as I assume - is the case - Col. Regs. apply to Brunei, there should be - see Col. Regs. 153 (2).

J.A. Phill.

14/7/49,

A/No: we took this matter up with Brunei not very long ago asking them to submit legal reports.

I think probably in the present case ~~that~~ it was assumed that a legal report wd. not be required.

STATE OF BRUNEI

Forest (Amendment) Enactment, 1949.

(Enactment No.2 of 1949)

Legal Report.

As there is at present a shortage of hard wood timber in Brunei, it was desired to restrict the export of timber. This would normally have been done under Customs legislation, but the Brunei Government, for administrative reasons, desired that the control should be administered by the Forest Officer; further the Brunei Customs Enactment (Enactment No.2 of 1906) is far from satisfactory. Consequently it was decided to amend the Forest Enactment, 1934.

2. This Enactment amends section 52(ii) of the Forest Enactment so as to enable the Resident to make rules regulating or prohibiting the import or export of forest produce.
